Contributions

Special Character Contribution for 2026

At this time of year we prepare our budgets for the year to come.

Knowing what parents will contribute is an important part of our planning process. This money enables us to deliver Waldorf education and to manage the financial commitments we have as the owners of this land and buildings.

Unlike state schools, our land and buildings are owned by the Kapiti Waldorf Trust. Government funding supports essential maintenance of integrated buildings, although many of the initiatives that enhance our special character, support our curriculum, or improve our grounds rely on funding from our school community. Donations allow us to care for our environment in a way that reflects Waldorf values.

We ask that all parents submit the Special Character Contribution form—we rely on this to keep doing what we are doing!

The school has used a donation based approach since foundation days back in 1996. It is based on mutual trust and co-operation and we prefer this approach to a fees based system. A donation system allows us as a community to collectively carry specific family hardship situations. It gives whānau the option of claiming back a tax rebate of up to one third of your donated contribution.

The pledge form on page 20 indicates a recommended amount. Some families may choose to pay more than the indicated amount, as a way of supporting those who are unable to contribute as much.

We ask you to complete the pledge form, carefully considering the needs of the kindergarten and school and what this means for your whānau.

Fundraising

Where Fundraising Makes a Difference

The Harvest Fair is by far our biggest fundraising event.

It's an amazing occasion and parents give a huge amount of time and energy for this event. This usually raises around $20,000.
There are also some smaller fundraising events through the year. The money raised from these fundraisers goes into a different account and is not included in school income.

These funds go to the Fundraising Group account, which is managed by a group of parents. Teachers or community members can make requests to the fundraising group asking for funds to buy extra things for the school. The aim with this is to ensure transparency around how this money is used and to show tangible 'extras' that are affordable from the hard work of our parent community.

To share ideas for potential uses of the funding, kindly email:
fundraising@tera.school.nz

Is there any person who does not have the legal right of access to your child?
Please provide a copy of the Court Order.

Financial Arrangements. Please advise the financial arrangements that you will put in place for the pledge, disbursements and other payables. i.e 50/50 etc. A separate pledge booklet will need to be filled in by each parent/guardian.

Waldorf Parents

Parents as Partners in Education and Culture

Active partnership with parents in the educational process and cultural life of the school is a fundamental element of our “Special Character”.

To ensure the best outcome for the child’s learning, parents are asked to provide a home life that supports and fosters the learning environment of the school and kindergartens.

We have high expectations of the conduct of our staff and our community and expect all members of our community to:

- Be respectful toward everyone and uphold their right to privacy
- work together in partnership with staff for the benefit of students
- respect and adhere to our school values
- set a good example for students at all times.

Waldorf Teachers

Lifelong Learning and Connection

Our teachers are informed by more than a century of Waldorf pedagogy and practice, based on an understanding of child development from both a physical and spiritual perspective.

Teachers at Te Rā School are registered teachers who are committed to learning and growing as Waldorf teachers.

Te Rā School promotes a setting in which teachers have the freedom to work creatively and artistically within the New Zealand Waldorf curriculum which links to the New Zealand Curriculum.

Kindergarten teachers, where possible, remain with the child throughout their three or four year kindergarten journey, and class teachers, where possible, remain with their classes for the seven-year primary school journey. This allows for a deepening human connection, and for a greater understanding of each child's development.

Raising Concerns and Complaints

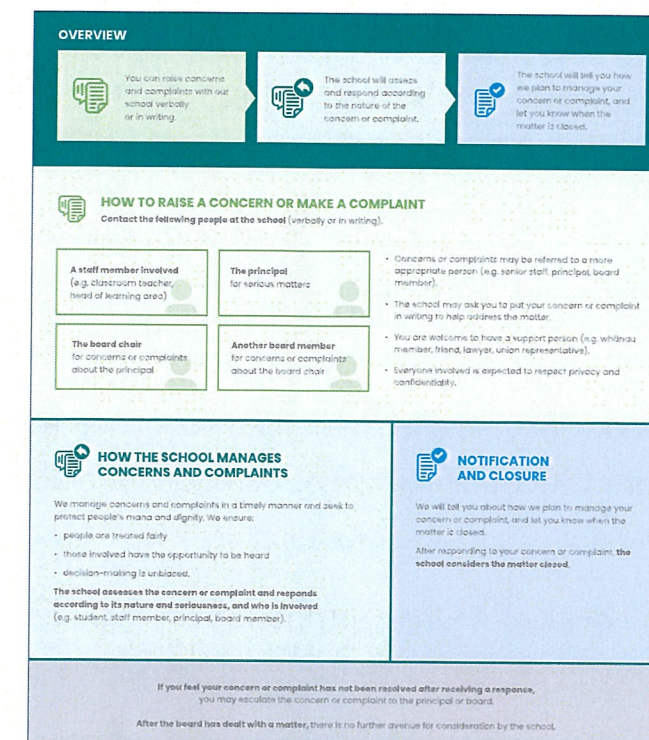

Concerns and complaints can be raised verbally or in writing. If a concern or complaint raised verbally cannot be resolved through discussion, the person who receives the information may make a written record of the discussion or ask that the concern or complaint be received in writing.

Policy excerpts:

- Concerns or complaints should be raised with the school in the first instance.
- If a member of the school community has a concern or complaint about a student who is not their child, they should contact the school. They should not contact the student or their parents/caregivers directly.
- Anyone with a concern or complaint may seek advice or support (e.g. a friend, relative, lawyer, union, employee assistance programme, counselling or mediation services). A support person and/or a representative may help raise a concern or make a complaint and may attend arranged meetings. A support person and/or representative is expected to respect privacy and confidentiality, as with other people involved in the process.

School Docs

Our policies are monitored by School Docs and updated, modified, or created in response to changes in legislation, significant events, Ministry guidelines, reviews / requests from schools, with regular reviewing from the School Docs team. Our policies and procedures are tailored to fit our school and its special character. You can find a link to our Te Ra School Docs site at www.tera.school.nz/school-policies

February 2025 - ConcernsandComplaintsProcess.pdf

- We expect all concerns and complaints to be raised in a respectful way, in accordance with our conduct expectations and inclusive school culture. The school will assess and respond to all concerns and complaints in a timely, fair, and respectful manner.
- Concerns and complaints should be raised as soon as possible to allow the school to respond effectively. There is no time limit on when a concern or complaint may be raised with the school.
- For full policy details please visit School Docs.

Disbursements

The disbursement donation covers the materials and meals (kindergarten) supplied to your children during the kindergarten and school year.

We aim to procure quality materials and ingredients as this is an important aspect of our special character.

Examples of disbursement items in the school are crayons, pencils, painting paper, handwork, cooking and woodwork material. In the kindergarten this includes nutritional ingredients, painting, paper, crayons. We buy these on your behalf, and in return we do not give you stationery or shopping lists.

Waldorf Curriculum

Schooling the Hands, Heart and Head

The principles outlined in the New Zealand Curriculum document, together with the additional principles below, embody what is held to be important in a Waldorf school curriculum:

- Education of the whole child: for head, heart and hands
- Curriculum and pedagogy based on child development
- The unhurried curriculum: readiness for learning

The education from playgroup and kindergarten through to primary school is an integrated journey. As they deliver the Waldorf curriculum, teachers strive to educate and develop all aspects of the child's being in a healthy and unhurried manner.

In broad terms, the education aims to integrate art, science and spirituality. Within this framework, the teachers use the curriculum to reflect the unique needs of each class.

Waldorf education nurtures a sense of wonder and reverence and is open to all faiths. In marking the passage of time through the year, Christian festivals are celebrated together with Matariki and other cultural and seasonal festivals. There is no religious instruction.

The school draws on a century of Waldorf practice, assessing applicability of practice within a contemporary light for the context of Aotearoa today. We are committed to the ongoing evaluation of curriculum content, current processes, structure and practices within the school.

Waldorf Education

From Steiner's Vision to Te Rā's Unique Approach

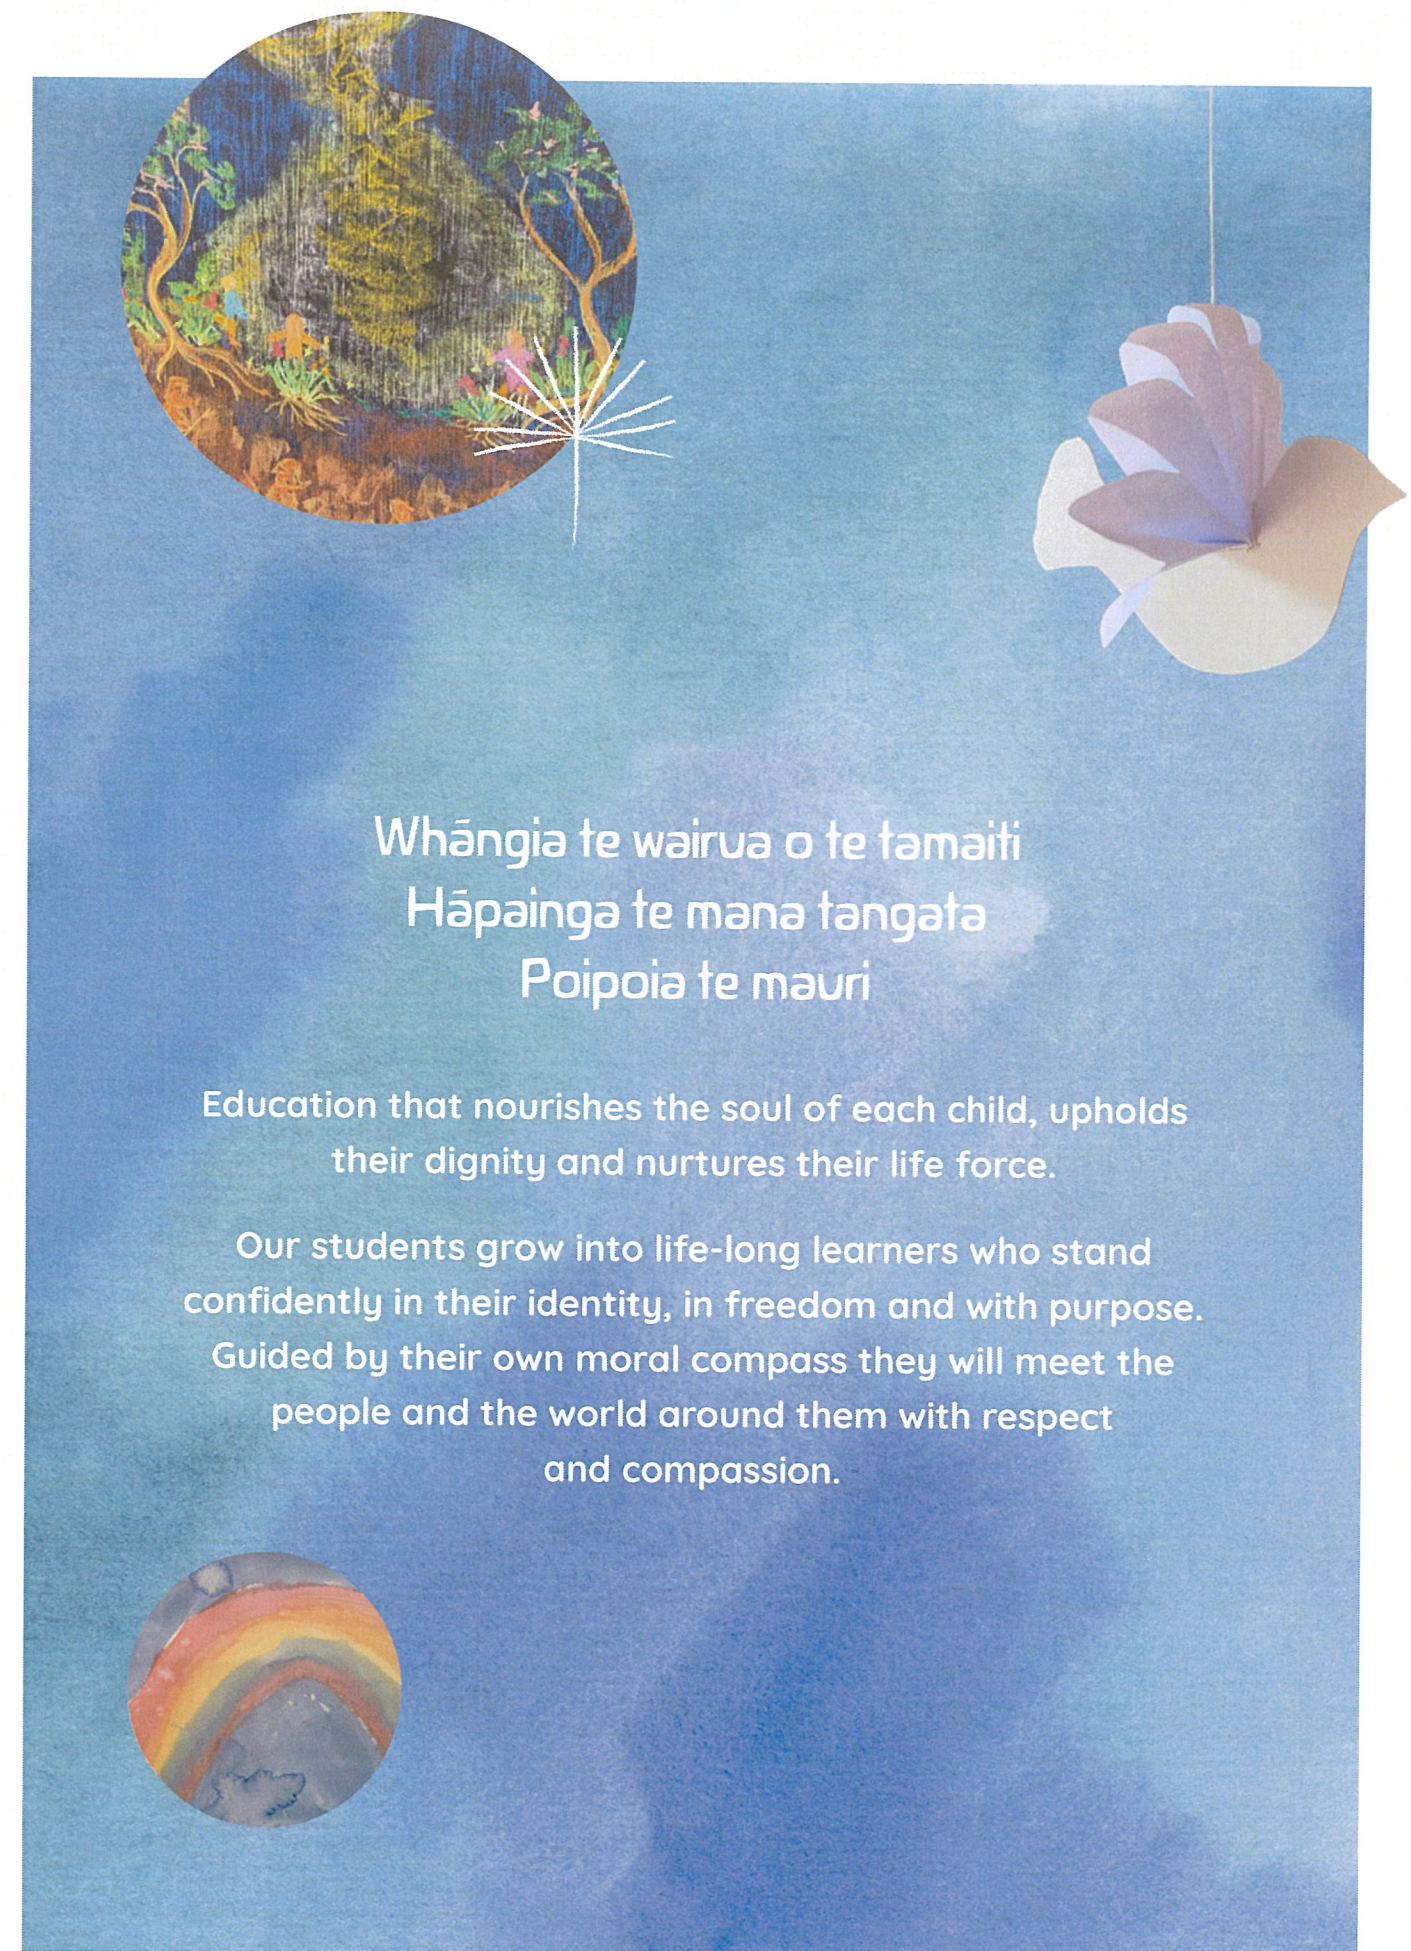

Waldorf education was inspired by the Austrian philosopher, educator, artist and scientist Rudolf Steiner (1861-1925) and is based on educational principles arising out of anthroposophy.

Waldorf schools and Waldorf education take their name from the name of a factory, Waldorf Astoria (in Stuttgart, Germany), whose owner had commissioned Rudolf Steiner to develop a new pathway of education for the children of his factory workers and administrators. In the English speaking world, Waldorf schools are also referred to as "Steiner Schools".

Education at Te Rā School is, however, not bound to the words of Rudolf Steiner or anthroposophy. Our curriculum is embedded within the context of the local community and the broader environment of Aotearoa New Zealand with its particular history, geography and culture.

Exploring anthroposophy beyond pedagogical principles is a matter of personal choice for teachers, parents and whānau. Examples of practical applications of anthroposophy can be found in curative homes (e.g. Hohepa homes), medicine and pharmacology (e.g. Dr. Hauschka and Weleda products), performing arts (Eurythmy, speech and drama), and agriculture (biodynamics, eg. Demeter certification).

Whāngia te wairua o te tamaiti
Hāpainga te mana tangata
Poipoia te mauri

Education that nourishes the soul of each child, upholds their dignity and nurtures their life force.

Our students grow into life-long learners who stand confidently in their identity, in freedom and with purpose.
Guided by their own moral compass they will meet the people and the world around them with respect and compassion.

Learning Through Doing, Feeling, and Thinking

Te Rā School and Te Rāwhiti are a Waldorf school and kindergarten.

Our education is integrated and holistic. It strives to provide for the rounded and harmonious development of the whole human being. Balancing the development of cognitive faculties with the cultivation of social, artistic and imaginative capacities together with engagement in practical skills and experiences. The curriculum gives equal attention to supporting the healthy development of the physical, social, emotional, intellectual, moral, cultural and spiritual needs of each child.

The three soul faculties of Doing, Feeling and Thinking (or Hands, Heart and Head) manifest in different ways at different ages. The Waldorf curriculum and pedagogy are designed to work with, and support, their healthy development.

We distinguish three phases of childhood which can shape the way children learn:

- Children aged 0-7 years learn, through imitation and play, about the essential goodness in the world.
- For children aged 7-14 years, the school curriculum aims to inspire them with a sense of wonder at the beauty around them.
- Aged 14-21, young people are guided toward independent thinking through which they can endeavour to find their own truth, now imbued with the earlier foundations of beauty and goodness. They thereby become free, self-determining adults.

This is what we mean when we speak of “education towards freedom”.

WE COMMIT TO MAKE

- ☐ Monthly payments *
- ☐ Paid in full by 31 March for this years tax rebate *
- ☐ Other payment schedule as arranged. *

Further comments about our pledge:

- * Our expenses are regular throughout the year, and it is best for the school and kindergarten cash flow if you pay by regular monthly payments, beginning in January.
- * Some families choose to pay as a one-off lump sum at the beginning of the year, and that is even better (eg. by the end of March, for those eligible to claim back 1/3 straight away).
- * If financial hardship prevents your family to pay the recommended amount, you can contact our Trust Administrator Toni Weir (toniw@tera.school.nz), to discuss your situation, and possible payment options.

Please make payments as you indicated to Kindo Account 'Growth Collective' 02-1257-0090149-000
You need to set up an account with Kindo (School Payments System), www.kindo.co.nz. It is a two step process. You make your payments to Kindo, and then apply your kindo balance to your pledge balance. The same app is used for our payments for disbursements, and other additional kindy/school costs that may occur throughout the year, such as school lunches, specific outings and camps.
